

PLAY TWENTY-TWO (A) – The Marriage at Canaa

(The Vintners)

ARCHEDECLYNE Loo(k), this is a joyful day
For me and . . .

(*Master of the Feast)

Nb. This is all that remains of the text. Clifford Davidson writes that “The Ordo paginarum, though in imperfect condition at this point, reported a play about Jesus, Mary, the bridegroom and bride, a steward, a servant, and six containers of water to be turned into wine.”
